Major

Grupa Major je bila drugačija od svega što se krajem osamdesetih radilo na domaćoj sceni. Njihov prvi album Son late zigi daj sa pjesmama poput „Stranac u svome plemenu" ostao je urezan u sjećanju poklonika rock'n'rolla ovog podneblja.Grupu su u prvoj polovini osamdesetih godina prošlog vijeka osnovali dvojica komšija, Aleksandar Samardžija - Masa (autor i gitara) i Miro Mijanović (bubanj) pod imenom The Ofingers. Ubrzo im se pridružuju Masini kolege iz sarajevske III Gimnazije - Radivoje Šolaja – Šole/ Braco na basu i Halid Hrasnica na klavijaturama. Grupa mijenja ime u „Major". U drugoj polovini osamdesetih postave Majora su se mijenjale brzinom svjetlosti: odlaskom Šoleta u Prag, bas preuzima Boris Sofronić, klavijature Igor Legat-Lega, vokalni solista postaje Darko Jelisić. Godine 1989. Boris i Miro odlaze na odsluženje vojnog roka, te tadašnja ritam-sekcija benda Letu štuke – Đani Pervan (bubanj) i Alan Omerović (bas) – učestvuju na snimanju prvog albuma Son late zigi daj u produkciji Mustafe Čengića-Mućeta, nekadašnjeg gitariste Zabranjenog pušenja. Na drugom, nikada objavljenom albumu A pa pa, vokal je preuzeo Almir Lemeš. Masa je u narednim decenijama nastavio svoj stvaralački opus i objavljivao pjesme snimljene često u saradnji sa muzičarima koji su svirali u bandu. Mnoštvo odličnih klupskih svirki priskrbilo je Majoru odanu publiku i kultni status benda koji izgara na bini. Povremeni koncerti u rodnom gradu raspaljuju maštu fanova i čežnju za revitaliziranjem nikad prežaljenog benda.

The band Major was unlike anything else on the domestic scene in the late 1980s. Their first (and only released) album Son Late Zigi Daj with songs like "Stranac u svome plemenu" is etched in the minds of rock'n'roll fans in the region. The band was founded in the first half of the eighties by two neighbours, Aleksandar Samardžija-Masa (songwriter and guitar), and Miro Mijanović (drums) under the name The Ofingers. They were soon joined by Masa's colleagues from Sarajevo III Gymnasium – Radivoje Šolaja (bass) and Halid Hrasnica (keyboards) – and the band was renamed Major. In the second half of the 1980s, Major's line-up changed frequently – when Šole left for Prague, Boris Sofronić took over the bass. Igor Legat-Lega played keyboards and Darko Jelisić became the lead singer. In 1989, Boris and Miro left for their military service, and the then rhythm section of Letu Štuke – Đani Pervan (drums), and Alan Omerović (bass) – took part in the recording of the first album Son late zigi daj which was produced by Mustafa Čengić-Muće, the former guitarist of Zabranjeno Pušenje. On the second, never released album, A Pa Pa, Almir Lemeš took over the vocals. In the decades that followed, Masa continued his creative output and released songs often recorded in collaboration with musicians who used to play in the band. Lots of great club gigs have earned Major a loyal audience and the cult status of a band that gives its all on stage. Occasional concerts in Sarajevo ignite the imagination of fans and the longing for a revitalization of the never-forgotten band.

Mak

Elektro pop grupa Mak postojala je u Sarajevu u periodu 1984-1985. godina. Članovi su bili pjevačica Senka Pujo, Branislav Podmenik, gitara, Damir Buntić, klavijature, Slavijan Conevski, bas i Muhamed Mujkić, bubnjevi. Sastav je sudjelovao na festivalu Omladina u Subotici 1985. godine i pjesma „Bagdad" pojavila se na festivalskoj kompilaciji.

The members were Senka Pujo (vocals), Branislav Podmenik (guitar), Damir Buntić (keyboards), Slavijan Conevski (bass) and Muhamed Mujkić (drums). The band participated in the Youth Festival in Subotica in 1985 and the song "Bagdad" appeared on the festival compilation.

Mali princ

Početkom osamdesetih u Sarajevu je djelovala novovalna grupa Mali princ. Jedna od njihovih pjesama, „Poderi sličice" pojavila se na Diskotonovoj kompilaciji Nove Snage iz 1984. godine.

At the beginning of the 1980s, the new wave group Mali Princ was active in Sarajevo. One of their songs, "Poderi sličice" ("Tear Up the Pictures") appeared on Diskoton's Nove Snage compilation from 1984.

Mamurni golubovi

Mamurni golubovi formirani su 1987. godine taman na vrijeme da prvu svirku imaju na demo događaju nazvanom Soldatski bal koji je organiziran u CDA kao ispraćaj mladih regruta u JNA. U grupi su bili pjevač Almir Lemeš, basist Ismet Žilo Mulašaćirović, bubnjar Đani Pervan i gitarist Mustafa Mujo Behmen. Kako je Mujo to veče bio spriječen, u posljednji čas ga je zamijenio Mustafa Čizmić. Nakon odsluženja vojnog roka bend je pokušao nastaviti sa radom, ali je pokušaj brzo propao.

Mamurni Golubovi (Hungover Pigeons) formed in 1987 – just in time to have their first gig at a demo event called "Soldatski bal" (Soldiers' Ball), which was organized at CDA as a send-off for young recruits in the JNA. The group included Almir Lemeš (vocals), Ismet Žilo Mulašacirović (bass), Đani Pervan (drums) and Mustafa Mujo Behmen (guitar). As Mujo was not able to play at that event, Mustafa Čizmić replaced him at the last minute. After completing their military service, the band tried to reform, but ultimately did not.

Monolit

Metal bend Monolit osnovan je u Mostaru 1988. Činili su ga Slobodan Ernjaković, gitara i vokal, Predrag Glogovac, gitara, Marin Bago, bas i Zlatko Mehić, bubnjevi. Uzor benda je bio Iron Maiden, te cijela plejada u to doba aktivnih metal bendova sa ino scene. Pjesme su najviše radili Zlatko i Sloba, a inspiraciju su crpili kako iz svakodnevnice tako i iz fantazije. Tokom 1988. snimili su tri pjesme, Kletva, Slavno je tvoje ime i You must die. Drugi demo nastaje 1990. i na njemu su obrada teme Povratak Otpisanih, te pjesme Between God & Satan i Jester Leads The Game. Momci su sudjelovali na Heavy Metal Festivalu u Sarajevu 1991. godine i baš kad im je krenulo, rat je prekinuo rad benda. Bubnjar Zlatko nažalost je izgubio život u ratu.

Metal band Monolit (Monolith) was founded in Mostar in 1988. It consisted of Slobodan Ernjaković on guitar and vocals, guitarist Predrag Glogovac, bassist Marin Bago, and drummer Zlatko Mehić. The band's inspiration was Iron Maiden, together with the entire galaxy of metal bands active at that time on the international scene. Most of the songs were written by Zlatko and Sloba, and they drew inspiration from both everyday life and fantasy. During 1988, they recorded three songs, "Kletva" ("Curse"), "Slavno je tvoje ime" ("Honored is Your Name"), and "You Must Die." Monolit produced their second demo in 1990, featuring a cover of the theme "Povratak otpisanih" ("Return of the Written-Offs") and the songs "Between God & Satan" and "Jester Leads the Game." The guys participated in the Heavy Metal Festival in Sarajevo in 1991, and just as they were taking off, the war interrupted the band's work. The drummer Zlatko unfortunately lost his life in the war.

Dušu i srce sastava Muha 71 (kasnije Muha bend) činio je Muharem Vojniković Muha, autor, vokal i šta god zatreba u bendu nastalom 1983. godine. Muha je pjesme počeo pisati na srednjoškolskim časovima, a u album i zbirku pjesama ih je uobličio nakon povratka iz JNA. Koncem 1990. Muha je potpisao ugovor sa izdavačkom kućom Suzy za objavu albuma. Rat je spriječio da se ugovor ispoštuje. Muha je, pored rada na pjesmama za svoje vršnjake, odavno pokazao sklonost stvaranja stihova i muzike za djecu. Istina, pjesme koje je pisao za djecu („Mi smo mladi vodocijepi, vodu cijepamo") više su zvučale kao, kako je jednom Sead Kreševljaković napisao, „namjenski napravljene za buduću djecu alternativaca koji ne bi mogli trpiti da im djeca odrastaju uz dotadašnje klasike". Nakon što je u ratu bio vrlo nezgodno ranjen, dočekao mir u Sarajevu i tek se kasnije nastanio u Parizu, zanimanje za stvaranje za djecu zadržao je svih tih godina. Tako su, godinama kasnije, nastali su dječiji mjuzikli Vrh svijeta – DJ Šampinjon i La vie est belle - Prince Mouche (što je ujedno i njegovo umjetničko ime na francuskom).

Muharem Vojniković Muha was the heart and soul of Muha 71 ("Fly 71", later Muha Band), formed in 1983, writing, singing, and handling whatever else was essential. Muha started writing songs in high school classes and shaped them into an album and a book of songs after returning from their obligatory JNA service. At the end of 1990, Muha signed a contract with the publishing company Suzy for the release of the album. The war prevented the contract from being realized. Muha, in addition to working on songs for his peers, has long shown a tendency to create verses and music for children. In truth, the songs he wrote for children ("Mi smo mladi vodocijepi, vodu cijepamo" – We're Young Water-Parters, We Part Waters) sounded more like, as Sead Kreševljaković once wrote, "made for the future children of alternative music lovers who would not be able to bear their children growing up with what was considered a classic". After he was very badly wounded during the war, felt peace in Sarajevo at the war's end, and only later settled in Paris, he maintained his interest in creating music for children all these years. Thus, years later, he created the children's musicals, Vrh svijeta (Peak of the World) - DJ Šampinjon and La vie est belle - Prince Mouche (which is also his artistic name in French).

Najcrnja hronika

Početkom 1985. godine Darko Zgrabljić (gitara) i Edin Sedlarević (bubnjevi), inspirisani i zaluđeni punkom i new primitivesom, osnovali su rock grupu Najcrnja hronika nazvanu po epizodi omiljenog stripa Alan Ford. Ubrzo im se pridužio Enes Zlatar Bure (vokal). Nisu imali svoje instrumente, pa su probe održavali na posuđenoj opremi u podrumima i kod Darka Jelisića koji je svirao bas gitaru na prvom kasetofonom zabilježenom (i sačuvanom!) audio snimku pjesme „Volim te k'o šalter na Privrednoj banci". Prvi nastup su imali u studentskom klubu KUK, 20.04.1985. godine. U jesen 1985. godine grupi se pridružuju Mirko Rakojević (gitara) i Vasilj Turanjanin Vanja (bas). Nastupaju povremeno u Slozi i CDA s ostalim sarajevskim grupama sličnog uzrasta, opredjeljenja i umijeća (Dandy, Major, Laser, Falcon, Dalton brothers, Futur II). Nisu se isticali sviračkim umijećem, ali su imali veoma zapažene nastupe zbog originalnih plakata i ekstravagantnog ponašanja i oblačenja pjevača Bureta koji je u pauzama između pjesama recitovao nepostojeće mađarske poslovice najavljujući njihovu udarnu pjesmu na izmišljenom mađarskom jeziku Lurnin – hurnin. Pored navedenih, kroz bend su prošli Davor Dojčinović Doja (bas, KUK 1985.), Davor Čolić Čola (gitara), Davor Tadić (bas) i Igor Čamo (klavijature). Svirali, pjevali i glupirali su se u periodu od 1985. do 1988. godine.

At the beginning of 1985, Darko Zgrabljić (guitar) and Edin Sedlarević (drums), inspired and infatuated with punk and new primitives, founded the rock group Najcrnja Hronika (Darkest Chronicle), named after an episode of a favorite Alan Ford comic. Enes Zlatar Bure (vocals) soon joined them. They didn't have their own instruments, so they held rehearsals on borrowed equipment in basements and at Darko Jelisić's place, who played the bass guitar on the first recorded (and preserved!) audio recording of the song "Volim te k'o šalter na Privrednoj banci" ("I Love You Like the Counter at the Commercial Bank") recorded on a tape recorder. They had their first performance at the KUK student club on April 20, 1985. In the fall of 1985, Mirko Rakojević (guitar) and Vasilj Turanjanin Vanja (bass) joined the group. The band occasionally performed at Sloga and CDA with other Sarajevo groups of similar interest and skill (Dandy, Major, Laser, Falcon, Dalton Brothers, Futur II). They did not stand out with their musical skills, but had very notable performances due to the original posters and the extravagant behavior and clothing of the singer Bure, who recited non-existent Hungarian proverbs between the songs, announcing their hit song in a pseudo-Hungarian language, "Lurnin - hurnin." Additionally, Davor Dojčinović Doja (bass, KUK 1985), Davor Čolić Čola (guitar), Davor Tadić (bass) and Igor Čamo (keyboards) went through the band. They played, sang, and fooled around between 1985 and 1988.
