Scabia

Sastav Scabia, koji su činili Elvir Imamović Elči (vokal i bas), Azra Inajetović (vokal i klavijature), prvo Sejo Kovo a zatim Amir Hadžiahmetović na gitari i Senad Heco (bubnjevi) postojao je u periodu od 1984. do 1992. godine. Okosnicu benda su činili nekadašnji supružnici Elči i Azra koji su prethodno bili dijelom SCH. U prvom periodu rada glazbeno su ih često poredili sa Šarlom akrobatom. Iako su od početka postojanja njih dvoje stvarali vlasiti glazbeni materijal na maternjem jeziku (pjesme poput „Padaj", „Radosna pjesma", „Čežnja", „Rešetka" i „Mr. Ritam"). Scabia je početkom devedesetih zasluženo nosila perjanicu najboljeg cover sastava u Sarajevu, a i šire. Specifičnu boju zvuku davao je Elčijev duboki, moćni vokal koji se lako kretao od klasičnog rock zvuka preko punka do new wavea. Zveketave gitare, izražen i melodičan bas, te povremeno korištenje saksofona nisu dopuštali svrstavanje Scabije u jedan glazbeni pravac. Bend je često svirao u tadašnjim gradskim klubovima poput Labirinta/SGL-a, CDA i Video Art-a. Velika je šteta da iza ovog sjajnog sastava nije ostalo više od demo snimaka i nekoliko video spotova.

SCH

Sarajevski alternativni sastav SCH (međunarodna kratica koja označava šizofreniju) postoji od 1983. godine pod istim nazivom i sa istim autorom i ideologom grupe, Senadom Tenom Hadžimusićem. Za osnivanje SCH veže se i ime umjetnice Mile Mikanović (Miomirka Melank). Teno je lik karakteristične kreativnosti i inata, žestoki proizvođač buke i emiter razorne energije te jedinstvena i autentična figura alternativne rock scene čiji značaj daleko prevazilazi ne samo Sarajevo, nego i bivšu Jugoslaviju. Iako ima izražen dar za stvaranje melodija, dar za njihovo uništavanje i masakriranje češće je preovladavao čineći žive nastupe SCH nepredvidivim, ponekad mučnim i teškim, a ponekad lelujavim i lebdećim. Sa Tenom su binu, melodiju i buku dijelili brojni članovi koji su dolazili i odlazili kako su umirovljenog policajca spopadale različite faze. Imena koja je obavezno spomenuti su Elmir Imamović Elči, Petar Erak, Goran Obradović Granon i, osobito, Azra Inajetović. Teno živi u Sarajevu a nedavno je dočekao da njegova Fantastična ljubavna pjesma (FLJP) postane soundtrack za film.

Sikter

Sikter je sarajevska alternativna rock grupa osnovana 1990. godine. Legenda kaže kako je na brucošijadi Likovne akademije te godine trebala nastupiti Regina, ali da do tog nastupa zapravo nije došlo jer su se Enes Zlatar Bure, Igor Čamo, Faris Arapović i Davor Čolić spontano popeli na scenu, članove Regine potjerali sa iste povicima: „Sikter!" i oteli im instrumente. Pokazalo se da je to odlično ime za bend. Ubrzo su dijelom novopečenog benda postali Darko Jelisić, bubnjevi, i basist Nebojša Šerić Šoba i u tom periodu se pokazalo da bend ima sjajan zabavljački potencijal i da suludim punk obradama može natjerati publiku na šiz. Nezaboravan je totalno anarhični nastup poluodjevenih članova Siktera ispred Katedrale čiji su dijelovi zabilježeni video kamerom. To je bio vrhunac neozbiljne faze postojanja Siktera. U bend su kasnije došli izvrsni basist, odličan pjevač i veliki kreativac Dragan Rokvić, Esad Bratović, majstor gitare, Igor Čamo, klavijaturista i producent, te bubnjar Nedim Zlatar i unijeli u Sikter glazbenu ozbiljnost. Momci su njegovali specifičan stil koji je sadržao ne samo rock'n'roll elemente nego i jak utjecaj funka i soula. U periodu do 1992. godine Sikter je bio demo sastav, a puni umjetnički procvat doživio je u vrijeme opsade Sarajeva i nakon nje tako da će o njemu biti više riječi na nekoj od narednih izložbi Ex-Yu Rock Centra.

Sing sing

Nebojša Šerić Šoba se u svojoj karijeri basiste našetao po bendovima. Jedna od stanica bio je i Sing sing koji je nastao početkom devedesetih godina. Pored Šobe, u Sing singu su bili Almir Kurt, Juriša Boras, Damir Nikšić, Edin Zećo i Anur Hadžiomerspahić. Glazbeno su plivali vodama rock'n'rolla i rhythm'n'bluesa uz obilate primjese propovjedničkog, teatralnog humora, a osim performerskog dara (svirali su više koncerata u CDA), i zajednički i pojedinačno bavili su se primijenjenim umjetnostima. Pridruženi članovi Sing singa bili su Samir Plasto, Dejan Vekić i Bojan Zec Filipović, dakle imena koja su u budućim godinama uspješno inidividualno djelovala. Kako se ne bavimo ratnim ni poslijeratnim periodom, neka ostane zabilježeno da je veseli bend pravio lom na živim svirkama koje su služile kako za zabavu publike, tako i za urnebes među izvođačima.

Sjenke

Pop rock grupa Sjenke iz Zavidovića postojala je osamdesetih godina. Članovi Sjenki su bili Miralem Slipić, Zijad Sinanović, Amir Ćatić, Erni Lipić, Dragan Bekez i Nedim Mehić. Pored čestih nastupa u zavidovićkoj „Krivaji" svirali su i u Sarajevu.

Skroz

Mlađi brat Dine Šarana, karizmatični, autodestruktivni i pretalentirani Adnan, u predratnom je periodu s Dejanom Ostojićem pokrenuo vlastiti sastav Skroz. Zapravo se u početku više radilo o idejnom nego konkretnom postojanju jer se grupa naslanjala na Top listu nadrealista i zapravo nije ni imala ni konačan naziv ni puni sastav ni zapažene nastupe i snimke. Stvarni bendovski rad počeo je u prvim poratnim godinama tako da će se i za ovaj bend čuti na drugoj izložbi Ex-Yu Rock Centra.

Strajder

Strajder je grupa koja će ostati zapamćena pretežno po tome što se za nju veže ime spisatelja Aleksandra Saše Hemona. Saša je, naravno, bio frontmen i zadužen za tekstove koji su nastajali pukim dodavanjem njegovih pjesama muzici, ili obratno. Također je, uz Gorana Markovića, bio i jedan od gitarista benda, s tim da je Gogo, za razliku od Saše, znao svirati. Bubnjar je bio Dušan Kuzmanović Dule koji će kasnije postati dio Torpeda, a još kasnije stradati u prometnoj nesreći. Strajder je djelovao nekih godinu dana (1987. godine), nastupao je u Steleksu, a demo snimke je snimao u kućnoj radinosti, na četvorokanalnoj mikseti. U kasnijim spisateljskim danima, Saša je napisao lijepu posvetu bendu iz svoje mladosti, priču „Bubnjar".

The band Scabia, which played from 1984 to 1992, consisted of vocalist and bassist Elvir Imamović Elči, vocalist and keyboard player Azra Inajetović, first Sejo Kovo, then Amir Hadžiahmetović on guitars, and drummer Senad Heco. The backbone of the band were former spouses Elči and Azra, who were previously part of SCH. In the first period of their work, they were often compared musically to Šarlo Akrobata. From the outset, the two of them created their own musical material in their native language (songs like "Padaj" ("Fall Down"), "Radosna pjesma" ("Joyful Song"), "Čežnja" ("Longing"), "Rešetka" ("Grid") and "Mr. Rhythm". However, in the early nineties, Scabia deservedly wore the mantle of the best cover band in Sarajevo and beyond. The specific color of the sound was given by Elči's deep, powerful vocals that easily moved from the classic rock sound to punk and new wave. Clattering guitars, prominent and melodic bass and the occasional use of saxophone did not allow Scabia to be classified in one musical genre. The band often played in the then city clubs such as Labirint/SGL, CDA, and Video Art. It's a shame that nothing more than demo recordings and a few videos remain from this unique and creative band.

Sarajevo alternative band SCH (an international abbreviation that stands for schizophrenia), began in 1983 under the same name and with the same author and ideologist of the group, Senad Teno Hadžimusić. Artist Mila Mikanović (Miomirka Melank) is also associated with the establishment of SCH. Teno is a person of characteristic creativity and spite, a fierce producer of noise and an emitter of destructive energy, and a unique and authentic figure of the alternative rock scene whose importance far exceeds not only Sarajevo but also the former Yugoslavia. Although he has a pronounced gift for creating melodies, the gift for destroying and massacring them more often prevailed, making SCH's live performances unpredictable – sometimes painful and heavy, sometimes swaying and floating. The stage, the melody and the noise were shared with Teno by many members who came and went, as the retired police officer went through different stages. Names that must be mentioned are Elmir Imamović Elči, Petar Erak, Goran Obradović Granon and, especially, Azra Inajetović. Teno lives in Sarajevo and he recently had his "Fantastična ljubavna pjesma" ("Fantastic Love Song") (FLJP) become the soundtrack for a film.

Sikter (Get the Hell Out of Here/Fuck Off) is an alternative rock group from Sarajevo founded in 1990. Legend has it that Regina was supposed to perform at the freshman party of the Academy of Fine Arts that year, but that the performance did not actually take place because Enes Zlatar Bure, Igor Čamo, Faris Arapović and Davor Čolić spontaneously climbed onto the stage and chased away the members of Regina with the same shouts: "Sikter!" and took their instruments. It turned out to be a great name for the band. Soon, Darko Jelisić, drums, and bassist Nebojša Šerić Šoba became part of the new band, and in that period it was shown that the band has great entertainment potential and that it could make the audience go crazy with punk covers. Totally anarchic performance of half-dressed Sikter members in front of the Cathedral, parts of which were recorded with a video camera, are unforgettable. That was the peak of the frivolous phase of Sikter's existence. Dragan Rokvić, an excellent bassist, an excellent singer an extremely creative person, Esad Bratović, a guitar master, Igor Čamo, a keyboardist and producer, and drummer Nedim Zlatar joined the band later and brought musical seriousness to Sikter. The guys nurtured a specific style that contained not only rock'n'roll elements but also a strong influence of funk and soul. In the period up to 1992, Sikter was a demo band, and it experienced its full artistic flourishing during the siege of Sarajevo and thereafter.

Nebojša Šerić Šoba in his career as a bassist moved a lot around in bands. One of the stations was Sing Sing that was formed in the early nineties. In addition to Šoba, Sing Sing included Almir Kurt, Juriša Boras, Damir Nikšić, Edin Zećo and Anur Hadžiomerspahić. Their sound ranged from rock'n'roll to rhythm'n'blues with abundant admixtures of preachy, theatrical humor. In addition to their talent as performers (they played several concerts at CDA), they were engaged in applied arts both collectively and individually. Associate members of Sing Sing were Samir Plasto, Dejan Vekić, and Bojan Zec Filipović, names that in future years successfully worked individually.

The pop rock group Sjenke (Shadows) from Zavidovići existed in the eighties. Members of Sjenke were Miralem Slipić, Zijad Sinanović, Amir Ćatić, Erni Lipić, Dragan Bekez, and Nedim Mehić. In addition to frequent performances at "Krivaja" in Zavidovići, they also played in Sarajevo.

The charismatic and very talented Adnan Šaran (the younger brother of Dino Šaran), started his band Skroz (Completely) with Dejan Ostojić in the pre-war period. In fact, in the beginning, there were more ideas than concrete existence, because the group was leaning on Top Lista and actually had neither a final name, nor a full line-up, nor notable performances and recordings. The actual band work started in the immediate post-war years.

Strajder is a band that will be remembered mainly because the name of the writer Aleksandar Saša Hemon is associated with it. Saša was, of course, the frontman and in charge of the lyrics that were created by simply adding his songs to music, or vice versa. He was also, along with Goran Marković, one of the band's guitarists. The drummer was Dušan Kuzmanović Dule, who would later become part of Torpeda, and who later tragically died in a car accident. Strajder was active for about a year (in 1987), it performed at Steleks and recorded demos at home, on a four-track mixing device. In his later days, as a writer, Saša wrote a beautiful dedication to the band from his youth, the story "Drummer."
