Kemal Monteno...

Kemal Monteno

Kemal Monteno – Legenda bosanskogercegovačke muzičke scene Kemal Monteno rođen je 17.9.1948.godine. Svoje prve estradne korake pravi sredinom šezdesetih. Prvi veliki uspjeh postiže sa pjesmom "Lidija" sa kojom je pobijedio na prvom festivalu "Vaš šlager sezone" 1967.godine. Slijede još veći hitovi kao što su "Jedne noći u decembru", "Pahuljice", "Dušo moja" da bi na festivalu "Vaš šlager sezone 1976" pobijedio sa pjesmom "Sarajevo ljubavi moja". Ta pjesma će postati njegov zaštitni znak.

Nakon toga. Pa sve do druge polovine osamdesetih slijede brojni festivalski nastupi i albumi. Pred kraj osamdesetih čini se da se polako povlači sa scene da bi se u velikom stilu vratio 1991.godine sa pjesmom "Nekako s proljeća" otpjevanom u duetu sa Crvenom jabukom. Najavljeni veliki povratak osujetio je rat. Ratne godine Monteno provodi u opkoljenom Sarajevu i tada nastaje pjesma "Pismo prijatelju".

Zdravstveno stanje mu se tokom devedesetih pogoršava i manje se bavi novim projektima, povremeno nastupa i to je sve. Krajem 1997. godine za potrebe tada aktuelnog albuma Borisa Novkovića sa njim snimi duet čiji je autor ponovo Zlatko Arslanagić. Pjesma se zove "Daleko" i izvedena je na festival Zagreb 1997. Uspjeh te pjesme, ali i povratak Indexa na scenu ponukaju ga da konačno krene u realizaciju dugo najavljivanog vlastitog solo albuma. Album se, konačno, pojavio 2001 godine pod imenom Hvala vam prijatelji. Album je sastavljen od dueta sa starim muzičkim saradnicima kao što su Oliver Dragojević, Rade Šerbedžija, Gabi Novak, Tereza Kesovija, tu su odranije poznati dueti sa Crvenom jabukom i Borisom Novkovićem. Ali uradio je i nekoliko pjesama sa izvođačima mlađe generacije kao što su Fuad Backović Deen i Danijela Martinović.

Posljednji album objavio je u ljeto 2013.godine pod nazivom Šta je život. Krajem 2014.godine izvršena mu je transplantacija bubrega, a preminuo je u Zagrebu 21.januara 2015.godine.

Rezonansa

Rezonansa – Grupu Rezonansa je 1975.godine osnivao dvadesetjednogodišnji Brano Likić koji je napustio svoj dotadašnji sastav Formula 4. U pauzi između dvije grupe on je čak objavio jedan singl pod vlastitim imenom. U grupi Rezonansa je od samog početka i njegova sestra Branka, poznatija kao Seka. Kroz grupu su tokom godina prošli mnogi znani muzičari sa sarajevske pop rock scene. Tu su bili Darko Arkus, Toni Malis, Điđi Jankelić, Šefćet Hodža, Džemo Novaković, Nikša Bratoš, Ademir Volić, Damir Arslanagić, Faruk Jažić, Sinan Alimanović, Neno Jeleč, Edo Bilal, Krešo Vlašić, da pomenemo samo neke. Imali su neobičnu postavu sa dvije violine, a koristili su i tradicionalne instrumente koje druge grupe nisu koristile u to vrijeme.

Njihove pjesme od početka imaju dobru dozu folka u sebi. Takva je i njihova prva pjesma "Nemoj meni branit moja nano" koju su objavili 1975.godine. Tekst ove pjesme napisao je Husein Huska Vladović, a u to vrijeme pored brata i sestre Likić u grupi su Mario Barišić, Senad Begović i Krešo Rebić. Već za drugi singl "Trči Čule" iz iste godine na mjesto bubnjara umjesto Beganovića došao je Ljubo Pavlović. Uskoro je izašao i njihov prvi album Nemoj meni/Nemoj ni ti meni. Grupi se tada već pridružio Darko Arkus na instrumentima sa klavijaturama. Slijedi još jedan uspješan singl iz 1976.godine sa pjesmom "Hajde dušo da igramo malo". Nakon nekoliko sličnih singlova mijenjaju stil i posvećuju se pravljenju "revolucionarnih pjesama". Takav je i njihov drugi album Procvjetala ljubičica plava iz 1978.godine. Nakon toga okreću se nešto klasičnijem rock zvuku. U tom periodu objavili su jedan jako dobar album Prolaz molim!!. Tada su u grupi već Jasminko Zubanović i Bobo Arkus. Do idućeg albuma Profesija muzičar iz 1981.godine u grupi dolazi do novih promjena. Dolaze Džemo Novaković, Toni Malis i Dragan Nikačević.

Posljednji album su objavili 1985.godine. Nakon toga grupa sve manje radi, a Likić je sve više angažovan u svom studiju BLAP u Sarajevu u kojem su svoje ploče tada snimali Merlin, Tifa, Zerina Cokoja i mnogi drugi. Brano Likić je ponovo nastupio u ljeto 2003 na festivalu Sunčane skale sa pjesmom "Čovjek sa juga", a 2004.godine je objavio jednu cjelovitu kompilaciju najvećih uspjeha grupe. Od 2009.godine pa u narednih trinaest godina Brano je objavio desetak solističkih albuma.

Godinu dana nakon toga objavila je i pjesmu "Sve smo mogli mi" koja će postati njen zaštitni znak. Zanimljivo je da je ona prije Bijelog dugmeta snimila pjesmu "Ima neka tajna veza" za potrebe jednog televizijskog dokumentarca.

U drugoj polovini sedamdesetih ne napušta scenu, ali joj muzika nije u prvom planu. Uglavnom objavljuje po jedan ili dva singla godišnje. Jedan japanski novinar na službi u Jugoslaviji pratio je Olimpijadu, zapazio Jadranku i odnio je njene snimke u Japan. Na osnovu njih dobila je poziv da tamo nastupi. Tako počinje njena veza sa Japanom u koji će i definitivno odseliti 1988 godine.

Zbog bolesti se vraća u Sarajevo i od 2007. godine je objavila dva studijska albuma, sa tek pokojom novom pjesmom i izuzetnu kompilaciju na tri CD-a Boje zvuka iz 2013.godine.

Kemal Monteno was a legend of the Bosnian music scene. He was born on September 17, 1948. His first stage appearances were in the mid-1960s. He achieved his first big success with the song "Lidija" that won the first festival "Vaš šlager sezone" ("Your hit of the season") in 1967. Bigger hits followed, including "Jedna noć u Decembru" ("One Night in December"), "Pahuljice" ("Snowflakes"), "Dušo moja" ("My Dear"). He won another "Vaš šlager sezone" in 1976 with the song "Sarajevo ljubavi moja" ("Sarajevo, my Love"). This song become his trademark.

Following this and until the second half of the 80s he appeared at numerous festivals and albums. Towards the end of the 80s, he seemed to slowly withdraw from the scene, only to return in style in 1991 with the song "Nekako s proljeća" ("Somehow With the Spring") sung with the band Crvena jabuka (Red Apple). The announced great return was thwarted by the war. Monteno spent the war years in besieged Sarajevo, and that's when the song "Pismo prijatelju" ("A Letter to a Friend") was written.

During the 1990s, his health worsened and he was less involved in new projects, and performing occasionally. At the end of 1997, for an album Boris Novković's was working on at the time, they recorded a duet authored by Zlatko Arslanagić. The song was called "Daleko" ("Far away") and was performed at the 1997 Zagreb Festival. The success of that song, as well as the return of Indexi to the scene, prompted him to finally begin work on his long-announced solo album. The album finally appeared in 2001 under the name Hvala vam prijatelji (Thank you, friends). The album consisted of duets with long-time musical collaborators such as Oliver Dragojević, Rade Šerbedžija, Gabi Novak, Tereza Kesovija. It included earlier famous duets with the Crvena jabuka and Boris Novković. Additionally, he also made several songs with artists of the younger generation such as Fuad Backović Deen and Danijela Martinović.

He released his last album in the summer of 2013 under the title Šta je život (What is life). At the end of 2014, he underwent a kidney transplant surgery. He died in Zagreb on January 21, 2015.

Rezonansa (Reason from SA-Sarajevo) was founded in 1975 by twenty-one-year-old Brano Likić, who had left his previous band Formula 4. In the break between the two bands, he released a single under his own name. His sister Branka, better known as Seka, was in Rezonansa since the very beginning. Over the years, many well-known musicians from Sarajevo's pop rock scene have performed with the group, some of which include Darko Arkus, Toni Malis, Điđi Jankelić, Šefćet Hodža, Džemo Novaković, Nikša Bratoš, Ademir Volić, Damir Arslanagić, Faruk Jažić, Sinan Alimanović, Neno Jeleč, Edo Bilal, Krešo Vlašić, to name just a few. They had a unique setup with two violins, and they also used traditional instruments that other bands did not use at the time.

Their songs had a good dose of folk in them from the beginning. Such was their first song "Nemoj meni branit moja nano" ("Don't stop me, my granny"), released in 1975. The text of this song was written by Husein Huska Vladović, and at that time Mario Barišić, Senad Begović and Krešo Rebić were in the band in addition to brother and sister Likić. Already for the second single "Trči Čule" ("Čule Runs") from the same year, Ljubo Pavlović replaced Beganović at the drums. Following this, their first album Nemoj meni/Nemoj ni ti meni (Don't you/Don't you to me) was released. Darko Arkus joined the band on keyboards. All of this was followed by another successful single from 1976 with the song "Hajde dušo da igramo malo" ("Let's Play a Little, Honey"). After several similar singles, they changed their style and made songs in the "revolutionary" style. Such is their second album Procvjetala ljubičica plava (Blue Violet Bloom) from 1978. Following this they turned to a somewhat more classic rock sound. In that period, they released a very good album Prolaz molim!! (Pass, please!!). At that time, Jasminko Zubanović and Bobo Arkus were already in the band. By the time of the next album Profesija muzičar (Profession Musician) from 1981, the group underwent new changes with arrivals of Džemo Novaković, Toni Malis and Dragan Nikačević.

They released their last album in 1985. After that, the group worked less and less, and Likić was more and more engaged in his BLAP studio in Sarajevo, where Merlin, Tifa, Zerina Cokoja and many others recorded their songs. Brano Likić performed again in the summer of 2003 at the "Sunčane skale festival" ("Sunny Steps Festival") with the song "Čovjek sa juga" ("Man from the South"), and in 2004 he published a complete compilation of the group's greatest hits. From 2009 to 2022, Brano has released ten solo albums.

Jadranka Stojaković was born on July 24, 1950 in Kraljeva Sutjeska. Even before she came of age, she performed in the band Kombo 6 (Combo 6), and at the age of 18 she performed independently for the first time at the festival "Mladi pjevaju proljeću" ("Youth Sing to the Spring"). During the next three years she gained necessary experience playing in Germany and Norway with her uncle and his accompanying band. In 1972 she tried to qualify for the "Eurovision Song Contest" with the song "Tik, tika, taka" ("Tick, Tick, Tack") but failed. When she recorded Bregović's song "Čekala sam" ("I Have Waited") she had a really big hit for the first time. A year after that, she also published the song "Sve smo mogli mi" ("We could do It All") becoming her trademark song. Even before, she recorded the song "Ima neka tajna veza" (There is Some Secret Bond) for a television documentary.

In the second half of the 70s, she did not leave the scene, but music was not in the foreground. She released one or two singles a year. For the 1978 Zagreb Festival, she recorded Balašević's "Život je jednosmjerna cesta" ("Life is a One-way Street"). She graduated from the Academy of Fine Arts, worked on composing music for television, and wrote a column in the newspaper Oslobođenje (Liberation). It was not until 1981 that she published her first real album (in 1976 the compilation Jadranka appeared) under the name Svitanje (The Break of the Day). She was the author of the official theme music for the 1984 Sarajevo Olympics Games, and she published an album with traditional songs dedicated to the Olympic Games. A Japanese journalist on duty in Yugoslavia following the Olympics, noticed Jadranka and took her footage to Japan, after which she received an invitation to perform there. This was how her relationship with Japan began, and she moved there in 1988.

Due to illness, she returned to Sarajevo and as of 2007 released two studio albums, with just a few new songs and an exceptional three-CD compilation Boje zvuka (Colours of the Sound) in 2013. She was no longer able to sing and worked as a music editor at Radio Television of the Republika Srpska. She died in Banja Luka on May 3, 2016.
