Teška industrija

Teška industrija – Grupu je u Sarajevu 1974.godine osnovao Subotičanin Gabor Lenđel Prvu postavu Teške industrije sačini tako da on svira klavijature, a iz grupe COD dođu gitarista Vedad Hadžiavdić i basista Ivica Propadalo. Bubnjar je bio Senad Begović koji je došao iz grupe Formula 4, a pjevač je bio Fadil Toskić.

Međutim, već naredne godine na mjesto pjevača dolazi iz travničke grupe Veziri Seid Memić Vajta, a iz grupe Formula 4 dolazi basista Sanin Karić. Najveće uspjehe postižu u toj postavi tokom 1975. i 1976.godine kada ih smatraju jednom od najboljih jugoslovenskih grupa. Snimaju uspješne singlove sa pjesmama "Karavan", "Kolika je Jahorina planina", "Kadija". Objavljuju album Ho–ruk početkom 1976.godine, a te godine učestvuju i na splitskom festivalu sa pjesmom "Život je maskenbal".

Krajem godine Vajta napušta grupu. Ubrzo nakon njega odlazi i Karić koji prelazi u Bijelo dugme. U grupi dolazi do brojnih promjena. Stalni članovi postaju Aleksandar Kostić, Munib Zoranić i Darko Arkus. Na mjesto pjevača dolazi Goran Kovačević i sa njim rade dva albuma u dvije godine. Na onom drugom, Zasviraj i za pojas zadjeni iz 1978 više nema Lenđela koji je u oktobru 1977.godine otišao u vojsku i nije se vratio ovoj grupi.

Vedad Hadžiavdić pokušava da reaktivira grupu i 1984.godine ta nova postava snimila je album Ponovo sa vama. Hadžiavdić je još jednom pokušao okupiti grupu i to 1992. godine kada su snimili album Gospode, ne daj da je sanjam, a zatim 1996.godine i album Sarajevska noć na kojem su obnovljene neke pjesme sa prethodnog albuma. Na oba ova albuma pjevao je Alen Mustafić.

Originalna postava grupe okuplja se još jednom 2007.godine i to sa Vajtom na mjestu pjevača i tada su snimili album Kantina sa nekoliko novih pjesama, ali ponovo urađenim starim hitovima. Vajta se, međutim, kratko zadržao u grupi i već krajem 2009.godine u grupu je došla pjevačica Lea Mijatović. Sa njom su 2010.godine snimili album Nazovi album pravim imenom. Početkom jeseni 2016.godine Leu je na mjestu pjevačice zamijenila Maja Bajamić.

Nikola Borota

Nikola Borota Radovan – Čovjek koji je od samih početaka stvranja bosanskohercegovačke pop i rock scene imao značajan uticaj na sve najvažnije pojave na toj sceni. Od Indexa koje je nagovarao da rade vlastite pjesme, do Bijelog dugmeta kojem je ilegalno omogućio snimanje prvih radova u studiju Radio Sarajeva. Svojim autorskim radom izvršio je presudan uticaj na Gorana Bregovića da napravi fuziju folk muzike i rock'n'rolla. Imao je vlastitu grupu Kamen na kamen koja će ostati zapamćena i po tome što je u njoj karijeru pjevačice otpočela Neda Ukraden. Imali su veliki hit "Jaranice" izveden na festivalu "Vaš šlager sezone 1980". godine. Njegov autorski i izvođački rad vezan je uz sredinu sedamdesetih kada je, pored folklorom inspirisanih, radio i partizanske pjesme u novim aranžmanima poput "Drugarice posadimo cvijeće". Producirao je i prvi album grupe COD. Živi i radi na Novom Zelandu.

Divlje jagode

Divlje jagode – Grupa je nastala u Zagrebu 1977 godine. Osnivao ju je Bišćanin Sead Zele Lipovača. Sa njim je u grupi bio i njegov sugrađanin Ante Janković na mjestu pjevača. Basista je bio Nihad Jusufhodžić. Sva trojica su do tada svirali u grupi Zenit. Pridružio im se i Mustafa Muc Ismailovski kao klavijaturista. On će kasnije postati poznat kao lider Srebrnih krila. Bubnjar je bio Adonis Dokuzović. Već na prvom singlu imali su puni pogodak sa pjesmom "Jedina moja" koja će postati evergreen. I prvi album će ostati zapamćen po baladama. Pored "Jedina moja" tu je još jedna vrlo poznata "Krivo je more".

Ali odmah po izlasku albuma najveći dio grupe odlazi u vojsku, Muc formira Srebrna krila, a Zele Lipovača postaje siva eminencija grupe Mirzino jato. Grupa obnavlja rad početkom 1981. godine. Iz stare postave tu su samo Lipovača i Janković. Bubnjar je postao Nasko Budimlić, a basista Alen Islamović.

Vrhunac popularnosti postižu 1982. godine sa albumom Motori na kome već pjeva Alen Islamović. Početkom i sredinom 80-ih, Divlje jagode su bile jedan od najvećih rock bendova u Jugoslaviji. U ljeto 1987.godine na mjesto pjevača dolazi Mladen Vojičić Tifa. Klavijature preuzima Vlado Podany, a bubnjar je Edin Šehović. Na albumu Konji našla se i pjesma "Zauvijek tvoj" na kojoj se kao koautor pojavljuje Mladen Vojičić Tifa. Već polovinom 1988.godine Tifa napušta grupu, a za njim uskoro odlazi i Podany. Vokalne dionice preuzima Čehić. Kada ode i Šehović za bubnjevima je jedno kratko vrijeme boravio Điđi Jankelić. Naredne godine u Sarajevo dolazi Zlatan Stipisic Gibonni da bi se okušao na mjestu pjevača. Čak su uradili i jedan album koji u Bosni i Hercegovini nikada nije ugledao svjetlo dana. Početkom 1996.godine izlazi prvi poratni album Divljih jagoda pod nazivom 100 vjekova. Na njemu su pjevali Žak Tataj i Emir Cerić. Sljedeći album izlazi 2003. godine pod nazivom Od neba do neba. Tokom 2020.godine, u jeku pandemije, izašao je njihov posljednji album Jukebox.

Teška industrija was founded in Sarajevo in 1974 by Gabor Lenđel from Subotica. The first line-up of the band consisted of him playing keyboards, with guitar played by Vedad Hadžiavdić and Ivica Propadalo (who joined from the band COD)on the bass. The drummer was Senad Begović, joining from Formula 4, while the lead singer was Fadil Toskić.

However, the following year, Seid Memić Vajta from the Travnik band Veziri (Viziers) came on as a lead singer, while the base player Sanin Karić joined from the band Formula 4. They achieved their greatest success with that line-up in 1975 and 1976, when they were considered one of the best Yugoslav groups. They recorded successful singles such as "Karavan" ("Caravan"), "Kolika je Jahorina planina" ("How Big is Jahorina Mountain"), and "Kadija" ("The Judge"). They released the album Ho – ruk (Gung–ho) at the beginning of 1976. That same year they participated in the Split Festival with the song "Život je maskenbal" ("Life is a Masquerade").

At the end of the year, Vajta left the band. Shortly after him Karić also left, joining Bijelo dugme. There were many changes in the band. Aleksandar Kostić, Munib Zoranić and Darko Arkus become permanent members. Goran Kovačević replaced the singer and they worked with him on two albums in two years. On the second album, Zasviraj i za pojas zadjeni (Play and Fasten Your Seat Belt) from 1978, Lenđel was no longer performing, as he left for his Army service in October 1977 and never returned to this band.

Vedad Hadžiavdić tried to reactivate the band and in 1984 a new line-up recorded the album Ponovo sa vama (With you Again). Hadžiavdić tried to gather the band once more in 1992, when they recorded the album Gospode, ne daj da je sanjam (Lord, Don't Let me Dream of Her), and then in 1996 the album Sarajevska noć (Sarajevo Night), renewing some of the songs from the previous album. Alen Mustafić sang on both of these albums.

The original line-up of the group gathered once again in 2007, with Vajta as the singer, and then they recorded the album Kantina (The Cantina) with several new songs and revamped older songs. However, Vajta stayed in the group for a short time and at the end of 2009, the singer Lea Mijatović joined the group. In 2010, they recorded the album Nazovi album pravim imenom (Name the Album by its Real Name) with her. At the beginning of autumn 2016, Lea was replaced by Maja Bajamić as the lead singer.

Nikola Borota Radovan is a man who had a significant influence on all the most important phenomena from the very beginning of the creation of the Bosnian pop and rock scene. He persuaded Indexi to make their own songs, and enabled Bijelo Dugme to record their first works in the Radio Sarajevo studio. With his original work, he exerted a decisive influence on Goran Bregović to create a fusion of folk music and rock'n'roll. He had his own group Kamen na kamen (The Rock on Rock) which would be remembered for the fact that Neda Ukraden then started her career as a singer. They had a big hit "Jaranice" ("The Friend") which they performed at the festival "Vaš šlager sezone 1980" ("Your biggest hit of the season 1980"). His work as an author and performer dates back to the mid-70s, when, in addition to folklore-inspired songs, he also performed partisan songs in new arrangements, such as "Drugarice posadimo cvijeće" ("Girlfriends, lets plant flowers"). He also produced the first album of the band COD. He lives and works in New Zealand.

Divlje jagode (Wild Strawberries) was formed in 1977 in Zagreb. It was founded by Sead Zele Lipovača from Bihać. His fellow citizen Ante Janković was in the group with him as a singer. The bass player was Nihad Jusufhodžić. Until then, all three played in the band Zenit (Zenith). Mustafa Muc Ismailovski joined the band as a keyboard player. He later became known as the leader of the band Srebrena krila (The Silver Wings). The drummer was Adonis Dokuzović. Their first single, "Jedina moja" ('My Only') was a total hit that became an evergreen. The first album would be remembered for its ballads. In addition to "Jedina moja", the second famous song from the same album was "Krivo je more" ('It's Sea's Fault").

Immediately after the release of the album, as most of the group went to do their army service, Muc formed "Silver Wings", and Zele Lipovača became the éminence grise of the band Mirzino jato (Mirza's Flock). The band resumed work at the beginning of 1981. From the old line-up, only Lipovača and Janković remained. Nasko Budimlić became the drummer, and Alen Islamović became the bass player.

They reached the peak of their popularity in 1982 with the album Motori (Motorbikes), on which Alen Islamović sang. In the early and mid-1980s, Divlje jagode were one of the biggest rock bands in Yugovlavia. In the summer of 1987, Mladen Vojičić Tifa took over as singer, while Vlado Podany played the keyboards, and Edin Šehović played the drums. The album Konji (Horses) also included the song "Zauvijek tvoj" ("Forever Yours"), co-authored by Mladen Vojičić Tifa. In the middle of 1988, Tifa left the band, followed shortly thereafter by Podany. Zlatan Čehić became singer of the band. When Šehović left, Điđi Jankelić played the drums for a short time. The following year, Zlatan Stipišić Gibonni came to Sarajevo to try his hand at being a singer. They even made an album that never saw the light of day in Bosnia and Herzegovina. At the beginning of 1996, the first post-war album of Divlje Jagode was released under the name 100 vjekova (100 Centuries). Žak Tataj and Emir Cerić sang on the album. The next album was released in 2003 under the name Od neba do neba (From Sky to Sky). During 2020, in the midst of the pandemic, their album Jukebox was released.
