Rock - Divlje jagode...

Divlje jagode

Divlje jagode – Ključnu promjenu i vrhunac popularnosti Divlje jagode postižu 1982. godine sa albumom Motori na kome već pjeva Alen Islamović. Janković je izbačen iz grupe pod nikada razjašnjenim okolnostima. Kasnije se govorkalo kako Lipovača nije mogao podnijeti da pjevač jednog heavy metal benda bude ćelav. Naredni albumi Čarobnjaci i Vatra ne uspjevaju ponoviti uspjeh, ali su im obezbijedili pregovore sa inostranim izdavačima. Zbog toga Islamović nije 1984. godine prihvatio ponudu Gorana Bregovića da pređe u Bijelo dugme. Snimili su jedan album za englesko tržište, ali ne nailaze na značajnije reakcije. U grupi je već od albuma Vatra i novi basista Zlatan Čehić koji je došao iz grupe Top.

Alen je prihvatio ponovljeni poziv iz Bijelog dugmeta, a i Nasko Budimlić napušta grupu zarad karijere kafanskog muzičara. Grupa se svela na Zeleta i Čehića. U ljeto 1987. godine na mjesto pjevača dolazi Mladen Vojičić Tifa. Klavijature peuzima Vlado Podany, a bubnjar je Edin Šehović. Ova postava je potrajala taman toliko da objavi album «Konji» početkom 1988. godine. Oko ovog albuma stvorila se prava afera kada je gotovo završen master tajanstveno nestao pa se skoro sve moralo raditi ispočetka. Na albumu «Konji» je i pjesma "Zauvijek tvoj" na kojoj je koautor Tifa. Nisu stigli ni da okončaju promotivnu turneju, a već polovinom 1988. godine Tifa napušta grupu, a za njim uskoro odlazi i Podany. Vokalne dionice preuzima Čehić. Kada ode i Šehović za bubnjevima je jedno kratko vrijeme boravio Điđi Jankelić.

Naredne godine u Sarajevo dolazi Gibonni da bi se okušao na mjestu pjevača. Čak su uradili i jedan album koji nikada nije ugledao svjetlo dana. Početkom rata Lipovača odlazi u London. Snima solo album Magic love 1993. godine, pomažu mu Ćeha i Nasko, a pjevaju Žan Tataj i Emir Cerić. Klavijature je odsvirao Nikša Bratoš. Na albumu su i neke Gibonnijeve pjesme. Naredne godine sa obnovljenim Divljim jagodama objavili su album Labude kad rata ne bude. Početkom 1996. godine im izlazi prvi poratni album 100 vjekova. Na njemu su pjevali Žak Tataj i Emir Cerić. Bas je svirao Sanin Karić, a autor dvije pjesme je Dino Merlin. Početkom 2003. godine Lipovača je ponovo obnovio Divlje jagode. Uradili su novi album Od neba do neba na kome je pjevao Pero Galić, a za bubnjevima je ponovo bio Nasko Budimlić. Bas je svirao Dejan Orešković. Na albumu Biodinamička ljubav novi pjevač je bio Livio Berak. Ostala je osovina Lipovača – Budimlić, klavijature je odsvirao Damjan Deurić, a bas Andraš Ištvan Bandy. Tokom 2020. godine, u jeku pandemije, izašao je album Jukebox sa novim i ponovo snimljenim starim pjesmama.

Tifa

Tifa – Nakon što sa Divljim jagodama nije do kraja odradio turneju, Tifa je polovinom 1988. godine okupio vlastiti bend (u kome su čak dva stara člana grupe Top) i počeo rad na prvoj solističkoj ploči. Ona se pojavila 1989. godine pod nazivom Tifa No 1. Već odranije je bila poznata njegova ljubav prema Atomskom skloništu, a na ovom albumu posvećuje pjesmu "Samo bog dragi zna" preminulom pjevaču Skloništa Serđu Blažiću. I na narednom albumu ima jednu takvu pjesmu. U pitanju je "Uspavanka no 3" koja je posvećena Draženu Ričlu nastradalom pjevaču Crvene jabuke. Inače na ovom albumu ponovo sarađuje sa Zlatanom Čehićem, a ploča je znatno komercijalnija od prve. Tifa krajem 1991. i početkom 1992. godine radi na novom albumu koji je bio skoro gotov kada je planove o njegovoj promociji prekinuo rat.

Tifa je jedan od najaktivnijih muzičara tokom prvih ratnih godina. Snima pjesme kao "Sarajevo će biti", "Grbavica" "Ponesi zastavu", "U bolje sutra ćemo poć'", "Vraćam se tebi seko". Jedan je od rijetkih koji se usuđuje da pravi koncerte u ratnom Sarajevu. Početkom 1994.godine izašao je čak i album Šareni dan.

Pred kraj rata napustio je Sarajevo i obreo se u Njemačkoj. Tamo je sa Zeletom Lipovačom i Zlatkom Arslanagićem radio na pjesmama za svoj novi album Dani bez tebe koji se pojavio krajem 1995. godine. Naredne godine je sa folk pjevačicom Elvirom Rahić snimio duet u pjesmi "Baraba". Ta pjesma, kao i obnovljena "Grbavica" su na albumu njegovih najvećih hitova. Tada već ozbiljno radi na novom albumu i on se pojavljuje 2001. godine pod nazivom Ostaću s tobom. U oktobru 2001. ponovo je napunio Skenderiju i početkom ljeta 2002. godine objavio je koncertni album sniman na tom nastupu.

Divlje jagode – The key change and peak of popularity for Divlje jagode was achieved in 1982 with the album Motori with Alen Islamović as the lead singer. Janković was kicked out of the band under circumstances that have never been clarified. Later, it was rumoured that Lipovača could not stand the fact that the lead singer of a heavy metal band was bald. The subsequent albums Čarobnjaci (Wizards), and Vatra (Fire) did not manage to repeat this success, but they did secure negotiations with foreign labels. This explains why in 1984, Islamović did not accept Goran Bregović's offer to join Bijelo dugme. They recorded an album for the English market, but a significant foreign audience eluded them. The new bassist Zlatan Čehić, originally from the band Top joined the band since the album Vatra.

Alen accepted a repeated offer from Bijelo Dugme, and Nasko Budimlić also left the group to pursue a career as a bar musician. The group was reduced to Zelet and Čehić. In the summer of 1987, Mladen Vojičić Tifa took over as lead singer. Vlado Podany played the keyboards, and Edin Šehović played the drums. This line-up lasted just long enough to release the album Konji (Horses) in early 1988. A scandal arose around this album when the almost finished master mysteriously disappeared, so almost everything had to be done again from scratch. The album Konji includes the song "Zauvijek tvoj" ("Forever Yours") co-authored by Tifa. They didn't even have time to finish the promotional tour, as in the middle of 1988, Tifa left the group, and Podany followed soon after. Čehić took over the vocals. When Šehović left, Điđi Jankelić stayed on the drums for a short time.

The following year, Gibonni came to Sarajevo to try his hand at singing. They even made an album, which ultimately wasn't released. At the beginning of the war, Lipovača went to London. He recorded the solo album "Magic love" in 1993, assisted by Ćeha and Nasko, and sung by Žan Tataj and Emir Cerić. Keyboards were played by Nikša Bratoš. The album also includes some Gibonni's songs. The following year, with the renewed "Divlje Jagode", they released the album "Labude kad rata ne bude". At the beginning of 1996, their first post-war album "100 vjekova" was released. Žak Tataj and Emir Cerić sang on it. Sanin Karić played bass, and Dino Merlin wrote two songs. At the beginning of 2003, Lipovača again reunited "Divlje Jagode". They recorded a new album "Od neba do neba" on which Pero Galić sang, and Nasko Budimlić was on the drums again. Dejan Orešković played the bass. On the album "Biodynamic Love" the new singer was Livio Berak. The axis of Lipovača - Budimlić remained, keyboards were played by Damjan Deurić, and bass by Andraš Ištvan Bandy. In 2020, in the midst of the pandemic, the album "Jukebox" was released with some new and some covers of old songs.

Tifa – Having failed to complete the tour with Divlje jagode, in mid-1988 Tifa assembled his own band (including two members of the old band Top) and began to work on his first solo LP. It was released in 1989 titled, Tifa No 1. His affinity towards Atomsko sklonište (Nuclear Shelter), was evident, as he dedicated the song "Samo bog dragi zna" ("Only Dear God Knows") to Sklonište's deceased singer Serđo Blažić. The next album would also contain one such song – "Uspavanka no 3" ("Lullaby No. 3") dedicated to Dražen Ričl, the deceased Crvena jabuka singer. This album was marked by Tifa's renewed collaboration with Zlatan Čehić, and the LP is considerably more conventional compared to his first. At the end of 1991 and the beginning of 1992, Tifa worked on a new album which was nearly finished when the plans for its promotion were interrupted by the war.

Tifa was one of the most active musicians during the initial year of the war. He recorded new songs such as "Sarajevo će biti" ("Sarajevo Will Be"), "Grbavica", "Ponesi zastavu" ("Bring the Flag"), "U bolje sutra ćemo poć'" ("We'll get to a Better Tomorrow"), and "Vraćam se tebi seko" ("I'm Coming Back to you, Sis"). He was one of the few artists who dared to organize concerts in war-torn Sarajevo. He even released the album Šareni dan (Multicolored Day) at the beginning of 1994.

Towards the end of the war, he left Sarajevo and ended up in Germany. There, he worked on his new album Dani bez tebe (Days Without You) with Zele Lipovača and Zlatko Arslanagić, released in late 1995. The following year, he released a duet, "Baraba," with folk singer Elvira Rahić. That song is featured on his greatest hits album alongside a remastered version of "Grbavica". He then concentrated on working on a new album which was released in 2001, titled, Ostaću s tobom (I'll Stay with You). In October 2001, he once again sold out Skenderija, and in early summer 2002, released a live album recorded at that concert.

He appeared at Bijelo dugme reunion concerts. His new album was finally released in the spring of 2013, titled Spreman sam na sve (I'm Ready for Everything). Since 2014, he has performed with the new lineup of Bijelo dugme.
